Other questions:

1. The vendor is responsible for temporary fuel provisions. The DTA buys diesel bus fuel from a number of vendors on the open market, including Edwards Oil, Harbor City Oil, Inter City Oil, or Rainy Lake Oil.
2. The DTA averaged about 9,000 gallons a week in August September and October of 2019. Temporary fuel provisions must ensure there will be no interruption to the fuel supply for the transit buses. See paragraph B.11 of the Technical Specification for further information.
3. Vendors are reminded to document Good Faith Efforts for DBE participation, which is required at the time of submittal.
